Charge 2 fitbit screen not working

Love Fitbit so far when suddenly the screen of the device does not light up even though it is charged and worked fine until now? If your Fitbit doesn't fire, no matter what button you press or how long you charge it, we have our best tips for you. Many users discover that while their Fitbits don't seem to match the dark screens that display nothing, the Fitbit device still collects data and syncs it with the Fitbit app and account! Similar readingsPort, charge it to 100% If the Fitbit is not fully charged, first place it on the charger and wait until it reaches full capacity. It's better to charge your Fitbit through a wall outlet than your computer's USB ports, it's due to some limitations in powering your computer's port. When the Fitbit is fully charged, try to see if the screen is now displayed and responsive. If fitbit doesn't load, check out this article: Fitbit Versa doesn't load? What to do if Fitbit does not charge It is best to remove each case or screen protector to make sure it does not block the ambient light sensor. The Fitbit ambient light sensor looks like a black dot on the side of the Fitbit. If this is locked, the screen usually turns off automatically. Check the brightness settings of the displayTimes, we need to adjust the screen brightness of our Fitbit. We suggest you go to a dark room or wait for the night and then look at Fitbit.If you can do something on the screen, then probably the Fitbit is darkened. Open the Settings app on your deviceTap screen brightness and change to Max (if available) or Normal from the options or select Screen Black out Also check, sleep mode is not on - this mode automatically blacks out the Sleep Mode screen does not turn off automatically unless you set a sleep schedule, so if you want to use this feature, make sure you tap the sleep interval and set the sleep scheduleOverline to set Wake Up to Automatic (Automatic) Ionic, Versa, Versa Lite Edition, and Versa 2 Quick Settings - Swipe down from the top of the screen and tap the Sense and Versa 3 Quick Settings icon - swipe right from the facelnspire Series, Charge Series , and Ace-press and hold button or buttons and press the Screen WakeTap icon that looks like a watch to turn on the Wake screen When you set the wake screen to automatic, the screen turns on when you turn on or raise your wrist. If you set the screen to manually resume instead, press the watch button or tap the screen to turn on the screen. Learn more about waking up the screen in this article: How to turn lift or touch on or off to wake up the screen on Fitbit Sense, Versa, Ionic or BlazeTry restartIf you see a black or blank screen on fitbit, the first thing to try is to restart or forced restart (also called a long restart). Restarting a Fitbit forces it to restart and often fixes problems such as a black, blank, or unresponsive device. How to restart or force depends on the model, so it's best to check the Fitbit user manual. Restarting Fitbit restarts your device, but it doesn't delete any data! In general, restart smartwatches such as Fitbit Sense, Versa Series, Ionic and Blaze To restart your watch, press and hold the button (or buttons on the back and bottom) for 10 seconds until you see the Fitbit logo on the screen. Then release the buttonYou can try this process several timesIf the device does not restart when you follow these instructions, remove any cases or screen protector, then try againJoin the tracker to the charger, then press and hold the button on the tracker for 5-10 seconds until you see a smiley face on the screen, then releaseWhen you see that smiley face and Fitbit vibrates, tracker restart If it does not work first, try this restart procedure several timesIf the device does not restart when you follow these instructions, remove any case or screen protector, then try againConnect the device to the charger and hold the button down for 15 seconds, then releaseRemove the device from the charging cable and pause for 5 seconds. Refer to the instructions. See error code 001 on the Fitbit screen? If fitbit shows error code 001, try using a normal restart first if possible. When a normal restart doesn't work, try changing your face using the Fitbit app. If it still doesn't work, let's turn off the fitbit (shutdown) or perform a long restart if it's available for your device. Because this error usually occurs on Fitbit Charge models, here's the direction in which you need to restart charging for a long time. Follow these step-by-step instructions. How to perform a long restart on fitbit chargeAdd the charging cable to fitbit and connect to the charging powerZa when you connect it, press and hold the side button down for 15 seconds. We recommend using a timer like the one on your phone to ensure a full 15 seconds after 15 seconds, remove your finger from the button and remove the Fitbit from the charger. You should see a black screen and not a smiley face iconIf you see a sad smiley face or error code 001 again, repeat steps 1-3Wait a few seconds, then plug the charging cable back into fitbitwait for the happy smiley face icon to appear on the screenIt is your Fitbit under warranty? If you've tried to restart, reset, or change the clock through the Fitbit app, but still can't get a Fitbit to see something on your screen, consider contacting Fitbit Customer Service.If you're still under the device warranty period (usually one year (for the Americas) or two years (Europe) after purchasing or receiving as a gift, contact Fitbit Customer Service for warranty assistance. Once Fitbit support confirms the warranty coverage, they typically offer options to repair or replace the current malfunction of the device. Not covered by the Fitbit warranty? If your device is outside the standard warranty period, you may still have some extended benefits if you purchased a fitbit using a credit card that offers additional warranty insurance. Even after the warranty is complete, contact Fitbit to see if there are other troubleshooting steps. And if nothing works, Fitbit will probably offer a new discount on your purchase when fitbit is out of warranty.
